Building organisational preparedness: Suicide postvention in practice

Launch of our Suicide Postvention Toolkit

Many organisations have focused on suicide prevention. Far fewer are ready to respond when a suicide impacts the workplace. For HR, wellbeing, occupational health and people leaders, the question is not if, but how well prepared they are to respond when it happens.

Join us for a practical 60-minute session on responding with compassion, confidence and clarity. Drawing on our free Suicide Postvention Toolkit, and hearing from someone who lost a loved one to suicide, we will cover preparedness, communication and language, supporting affected colleagues, and the longer-term recovery journey.
